Omar and Mina

Omar and Mina are based on the original drawings illustrated in Owen Jones' "The Grammar of Ornament" and are reflective of Islamic art's respect for nature and regard for mathematical order and harmony. The perfect blend of geometric and contemporary tilework for period living.

Brompton

Bring distinction and style to your home with the decorative Brompton range. Versatile patterns in complementary tones recall the Victorian fascination with Medieval geometric floor tiles that were originally used as ecclesiastical ornament.

The designs have been drawn from a selection of nineteenth century inlaid tiles, held in the V&A's unrivalled collection of ceramics. Perfect for a period or contemporary home, the Brompton range can be used alone as individual patterns or combined together to create a patchwork effect on floors and walls.

The Puddle Glaze tiles are made in a truly unique way with a translucent glaze that melts, puddles and pools across the face of the tile. Flowing to various degrees, resulting in a variation in shade across colours.

Based on warm, rich colours found in the Arts and Crafts Movement and Iznik designs, they are best used in combination as borders or as an expanse of pure colour. V&A Puddle Glaze tiles express uniqueness, charm and beauty.
