A photograph of an outdoor display area for porcelain tiles. The foreground is covered with large rectangular tiles in various colors and patterns, including solid grey, light beige, and a dark blue-grey with brown and orange marbled veins. In the background, a low wall features vertical sections of artificial green grass and larger rectangular panels of different tile colors. A tall metal fence with vertical bars is behind the wall, and a modern building with large windows is visible in the distance under a clear blue sky. Two potted plants are on the right side of the display.
